

Faculty Activity Report (FAR) Response Form

2019 Calendar Year

Deadline January 18, 2020

Briefly describe your noteworthy accomplishments in research, teaching, and service in calendar year 2019.

Teaching occurs both inside and outside of the classroom. In addition to classroom teaching, curricular or pedagogical innovation, advising and mentoring, and support of students in activities beyond the classroom may represent teaching accomplishments.

Service and engaged citizenship occur in many forms and include activities in the department and university, as well as in the profession. Examples of service include committee membership or leadership, outreach, editorial work, and professional governance. Service also occurs in informal ways.

Please submit this completed form through Workday, which can be accessed by visiting <https://www.myworkday.com/yale> and using these instructions. Sara Wilhelm (sara.wilhelm@yale.edu) is available to assist with any questions.

You may access last year's FAR through Workday by clicking on the Personal Information icon, and then clicking on "more" at the bottom of the "View" column. Then, click on "Worker Documents."

Name: Robert JS McDonald

Department(s)/Program(s): Mathematics

Please describe your single most significant accomplishment for calendar year 2019 (50 words or less):

I successfully integrated myself into a new department and a new career. I developed professionally and improved my teaching by incorporating more active learning elements.

Additional Noteworthy Accomplishments (typically not more than 500 words):

I gave a few undergraduate and graduate seminar talks